

The photographer Samuel Aranda (Santa Coloma de Gramanet, 1979) presents Territori (Territory), an exhibition curated by Glòria Bosch that started life as a documentary project focusing on the territories nearest and closest to the artist: Barcelona, the Empordà region, and Santa Coloma de Gramanet.

For eighteen months, Aranda immersed himself in these areas to reveal visual elements relating to what we are and how we live in our ecosystem. This immersion in the territory became a process, above all one of interaction with other people and places. In a totally unforced way it enables us to discover feelings about physical and emotional space, while interrogating ourselves and acknowledging the different human, social and political realities experienced in Catalonia.
